Yes! I would be interested in wireless DSL service as

(address)

I understand that this does not constitute a contract by me to actually purchase the service but is only an expression of interest. I further understand that a binding contract will be offered to me by ACD.Net if and only if ACD.Net decides that it can technically install wireless service which can be accessed by me at the above location. I will then have the option of signing and becoming a customer or declining the offer without penalty.
